DOOM POSITION / RECORD OF EVENTS

Purpose and evidentiary basis

This statement records Frost's public remarks about DOOM, the principal events of the DOOM–SUB_ZERO rivalry, and DOOM's account of the later private breakdown in trust. It is written from DOOM's perspective and addressed to Frost.

Public record. Where a point rests on the OGame Board, the specific post is linked directly beneath it and labelled by author and date. Frost's own posts are quoted briefly and verbatim, in their original spelling. Posts by DOOM members are labelled as DOOM's own public statements, not as independent proof.

Private matters. Discord exchanges, membership decisions and internal discussions are DOOM's firsthand account and are marked as such. No private screenshots are reproduced.

DOOM does not claim that any alleged informant inside DOOM has been identified, or that one exists. Every linked post was opened and checked against the point it supports on 23 November 2026.

SECTION I / JULY–AUGUST 2025

The Winter–DOOM understanding and Lacerta

01. Changing the terms of the Winter–DOOM understanding

Before the merger, Frost sought to bring Winter alongside DOOM. Darth agreed to accept Winter members only. Frost wanted KON and INDY included as well, although those groups were not part of the discussion, and he declined when the offer was not widened. Frost has confirmed this in his own words: when Darth said he could accept "only Winter members", he refused because KON and INDY "were part of us in Aries".

DOOM's position is simple. One party cannot unilaterally widen an agreement to include alliances that were never part of it. Frost was entitled to decline the terms on offer; that decision was his, not DOOM's.

02. Mocking Darth's calculations before the Master Chief crash

Before the battle, Frost and SUB_ZERO members derided Darth's tactical ability, including the jibe that he was playing with a calculator. On 31 July 2025 Darth intercepted Master Chief [SUB_ZERO] in a battle with 342.73 billion units of total losses and an attacker profit of 176.66 billion units. Darth posted the report on 2 August 2025, credited Davy Jones with the intelligence, and asked Frost in the same thread: "What was it you said again? That I was playing with a calculator?"

SUB_ZERO disbanded in Lacerta soon afterwards. DOOM regards the hit as decisive in that outcome. Frost has said the decision was SUB_ZERO's own, a switch to "plan B"; the combat report establishes the battle, not the reason for the disbanding.

03. Conceding a fair hit, then turning on DOOM's character

Frost's first public response to the Master Chief report was to accept it: "Darty you did fair hit". His objection was to Darth's accompanying remarks, which he said humiliated friends of his inside DOOM.

DOOM accepts that its own commentary was pointed. From that exchange onwards, however, Frost's criticism moved from a single battle to DOOM's character, membership and leadership, and it did not move back.

04. Telling his friends that they deserved better than DOOM

In the same August thread Frost wrote that he felt sad for his friends in DOOM: "honestly they deserve better". He repeated the message to Astrall and Tai Lung in November: "just you deserve better than doomies".

Both continued to play alongside DOOM. Their choices, and their later public posts, do not bear out the suggestion that they had been led into a poor decision.

SECTION II / OCTOBER–NOVEMBER 2025

The Mars rivalry

05. Accusing DOOM of hiding on Mars

Frost repeatedly demanded that DOOM form its tag on Mars and accused its players of hiding: "please form DOOM in Mars (dont hide like rats)". He proposed a "deal" under which DOOM would form on Mars and he would refrain from attacking its members.

DOOM's players entered Mars for seasonal objectives and rewards, including avatar and planet-skin rewards, not to pursue SUB_ZERO. Darth said so publicly at the time: some of DOOM had joined "for the achievements". Frost himself began Mars as Lonely Girl, and later wrote that pretending to be a girl had reduced aggression towards him. A seasonal choice of name and tag is not a failed confrontation.

06. Calling DOOM players cowards and rats

Frost's language was explicit. On 4 November 2025, commenting on a BAMBOO hit against Diesel, a player without the DOOM tag, he told the defender that at least he was "not hiding like other rats from Doom". Two days later he asked why Darth was "running from Mars like rat".

Rivals are free to doubt each other's courage in combat. Calling an entire community rats, in threads where it was not the subject of the report, is not commentary on a battle.

07. Using BAMBOO's successes to disparage DOOM

Frost praised BAMBOO's engagements while using the same threads to attack DOOM. He described BAMBOO's ACS as fair, profitable and top-ranked and, in December, wrote that he admired BAMBOO "for their skill". Those engagements deserved credit on their own merits. They said nothing about DOOM's tactical ability.

FROST, BOARD POST Frost (odinogame), 12 Dec 2025, post 7261380 · BAMBOO ACS vs. Yeji, Top 10 Mars

08. Accusing DOOM of backstabbing

In the same post Frost contrasted BAMBOO's fair hit with what he claimed DOOM members love to do, namely backstab. He offered no example and no evidence of any such practice.

The accusation was aimed at a community whose stated values since its founding in May 2018 have been cooperation, friendship and loyalty.

FROST, BOARD POST Frost (odinogame), 5 Nov 2025, post 7259158 · BAMBOO GANG vs. Diesel, Top 10 Mars

09. Dismissing DOOM's achievements as purchased advantage

Frost repeatedly attributed DOOM's results to Dark Matter: "so far I saw only DM usage", and later "all top fleets build with pure DM". DOOM does not deny that spending plays a part in account development. It rejects the idea that spending replaces intelligence, fleet tracking, timing and execution.

Frost applies a different standard to himself. He has written that he is "happy to support this game buying DM". Spending is either a legitimate part of the game or it is not; it cannot be a virtue in Frost's account and a disqualification in DOOM's.

10. Diminishing the victory over Master Chief

Having called the hit fair in August, Frost argued in November that Darth had caught a fleet "10 times smaller" than his own military. Account strength is relevant when comparing players, but it does not undo a correctly executed interception.

The earlier taunts had concerned Darth's ability to calculate. The combat report shows that the interception was calculated and carried out successfully.

11. Predicting that DOOM members would turn against Darth

Frost told Darth publicly that his friends in DOOM "will understand with time who are you". The remark was aimed at DOOM's internal relationships and its leadership, not at any battle or tactical decision.

FROST, BOARD POST Frost (odinogame), 6 Nov 2025, post 7259263 · Tai Lung vs. Nex71, Lacerta

12. Belittling Tai Lung and Astrall's operations

When Tai Lung, playing under the OMEN tag, struck Frosty [SUB_ZERO] on 11 November 2025, Frost posted the report himself and called the attackers "true warriors fighting sats and crawlers". Six days later he posted Astrall's attack in the same spirit and told Darth to teach his players to "use calculator".

Strikes on satellites, crawlers and defences are legitimate ways to disrupt production and apply pressure. Questioning their profitability is fair comment. Treating them as proof that the players lacked skill is not.

13. Using personal insults instead of tactical arguments

Frost repeatedly called Tai Lung and Astrall his "sisters", referred to DOOM's players as "mighty girls", and addressed Darth as "Darth/Farth". None of it concerned the battles under discussion.

DOOM does not claim the exchanges were one-sided in tone; its own members answered sharply at times. Its objection is to a pattern sustained over months, in which gender-based ridicule took the place of argument.

14. Mocking DOOM-associated players after losses

Frost also used the setbacks of players he linked to DOOM as material for sarcasm. In a December 2025 post addressed to Darth, he listed Diesel's fleet lost while idling and Mad's retreat into vacation mode, and concluded that DOOM had been afraid to form. Losses suffered by Davy Jones were treated in the same way.

Losses invite banter, and DOOM accepts that. The objection is to the repeated effort to turn individual setbacks into a verdict on the whole alliance.

SECTION III / DECEMBER 2025–JANUARY 2026

Continued challenges

15. Portraying Darth's reduced Mars activity as fear

From November onwards Frost claimed that Darth had run from Mars, and on 11 December 2025 he wrote that Darth had run "from Mars like chicken". During December 2025 Darth was managing a significant back injury and could not give the game his usual time.

Darth answered the same day by naming his Mars account, Bamboozled, and inviting Frost to "put your fleet where your mouth is". Reduced availability was not fear, and a publicly named account is not hiding.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Darth's injury is DOOM's firsthand account; Frost is not said to have known of it.

16. Treating temporary identities as concealment

Frost criticised DOOM players for using OMEN, other seasonal tags and different names, writing that "whole DOOM plays under diff alliance names". DOOM uses temporary tags and names openly, for seasonal play and for tactical surprise, on Mars and elsewhere. A result achieved under another tag remains part of DOOM's history.

Frost has done the same. He began Mars as Lonely Girl and, discussing a player pretending to be a girl, wrote in January 2026: “I did same”. Changing a tag or a name is not, by itself, evidence of dishonesty or of avoiding combat.

17. Retaliation without a comparable result

Frost and SUB_ZERO took part in smaller retaliatory and defensive engagements against DOOM-associated players. Those results are legitimate gameplay and DOOM acknowledges them.

In December 2025 Darth noted publicly that, despite his announcements, Frost had not gone after a single OMEN player. In the public reports DOOM has reviewed, it has found no SUB_ZERO offensive crash of a DOOM fleet comparable to the Master Chief engagement. That is a statement about the reports reviewed, not a claim that no such battle exists.

18. Renewed mockery over Tai Lung’s player name

After Tai Lung used Mirana’s name on Pluto as a joke, Frost asked publicly whether he had been “forced by Doom alliance to be girl for them”, and went on to ask whether Tai Lung was now Astrall’s girlfriend. The discussion had returned to personal ridicule with no bearing on combat.

SECTION IV / FEBRUARY–SEPTEMBER 2026

BAMBOO and a period of goodwill

19. Discussing cooperation against DOOM

When SUB_ZERO and BAMBOO fell out in February 2026, the terms of their earlier understanding were argued over in public. Frost described it as a personal agreement with DaddyPrime that neither would attack the other. Comrade T, writing in support of Frost’s side, went further: the second element, he said, was that they “would work together against doom”.

The precise terms remain disputed, and DOOM does not claim that any coordinated operation followed. The exchange does show that DOOM was discussed as a common opponent before SUB_ZERO and BAMBOO turned on each other, which is worth remembering alongside Frost’s later accusation that DOOM was plotting with BAMBOO.

20. Accepting DOOM’s support during the BAMBOO feud

In June 2026 Darth publicly congratulated Frost on his major victories over Magma and J Panda Oppenheimer: “Beautiful! Great work!” Tai Lung did the same, writing “Well played frost” and later calling him “the master of that style of fleeting”.

On 26 June 2026 Frost thanked Darth privately on Discord: “thank you for your comments”, adding “i value them high”. DOOM regards that exchange as evidence of genuine goodwill despite the earlier rivalry. It was goodwill, not a military alliance.

SECTION V / OCTOBER–NOVEMBER 2026

Internal trust and the breakdown in relations

21. Falsely alleging a DOOM–BAMBOO plan against SUB_ZERO

Frost subsequently accused DOOM of preparing to cooperate with BAMBOO against SUB_ZERO, apparently relying in part on the presence of BAMBOO-associated players in DOOM on other universes.

DOOM states categorically that no such joint operation was planned. Players can belong to different communities on different servers without those alliances forming a military coalition.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM’s firsthand account of private exchanges.

22. Claiming confidential sources within DOOM

In private exchanges, Frost said he possessed confidential information received from people within DOOM. Whether those claims were accurate or a bluff, DOOM considers them a serious breach of the trust previously extended to him.

DOOM does not assert that any member has been shown to be a spy. Its objection is that claiming confidential access through alleged friends undermines confidence and strains genuine relationships.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM’s firsthand account of private exchanges.

23. Casting suspicion on remaining DOOM members

After DOOM reviewed its membership and removed approximately 35 accounts that were inactive, no longer playing or raised security concerns, Frost questioned why other people with connections to him remained in the alliance.

Set beside his claimed inside sources, DOOM understood this as an insinuation that still more members were questionable. Darth declined to remove anyone further on that basis alone.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM’s firsthand account of private exchanges and its own membership decisions.

24. Leaving shared conversations instead of resolving accusations

After making allegations about DOOM’s intentions and internal confidentiality, Frost left the shared Discord group conversations.

Leaving a group is his choice. DOOM’s concern is that serious accusations were left unresolved while the relationship was brought to an abrupt end.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM’s firsthand account of private exchanges.

SECTION VI / NOVEMBER 2026

Buzz and the renewed rivalry

25. Objecting to the Buzz system-filler names

After the merger to Buzz, DOOM used a spare account, FrostTheSnowBunny, to occupy system slots in 7:345. Filler placement has a defensive purpose. Darth personally chose planet names such as SUB-ZERO TALENT, SUB-ZERO COURAGE and SUB-ZERO LEGACY.

The names were a direct response to Frost's recent allegations about confidential information and cooperation with BAMBOO. Darth takes responsibility for them. They will remain in place.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM's firsthand account.

26. Declaring the friendship over

On 22 November 2026 Frost sent Darth a screenshot of the filler system and wrote that "after this" they could not be friends. In the same message he said each side was free to attack, spy and bash the other, that Darth was a good person, and that it was nothing personal; he simply did not like insults.

DOOM's position is that the underlying trust had already been damaged by the earlier allegations about inside sources and supposed BAMBOO cooperation. The names followed that breakdown; they did not cause it.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM's firsthand account of a private Discord exchange; not reproduced.

27. Announcing alliance-wide retaliation

In a separate Discord exchange, Frost asked Tai Lung whether the filler names had been Catastrophe's idea or Darth's. When Tai Lung said he did not know who handled the fillers, Frost replied that he would bash DOOM "till they find out", and confirmed that bashing was what he meant.

There was nothing to find out. Darth confirms here that the names were his choice. DOOM has no objection to legitimate in-game attacks and is ready for them.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM's firsthand account of a private Discord exchange; not reproduced.

28. Issuing further warnings

In the group exchanges that followed, after a DOOM member referred to his threats, Frost warned that speaking badly about him "doesnt end well". DOOM regards this as one more warning in a long series of challenges.

Legitimate competitive action is welcome. Warnings do not replace combat results.

DOOM FIRSTHAND ACCOUNT Basis: DOOM's firsthand account of a private Discord exchange; not reproduced.

FINAL POSITION OF DOOM

Competition is not the issue. Trust is.

Frost has challenged DOOM's competence, leadership, loyalty and achievements repeatedly since the breakdown of the Winter–DOOM understanding. DOOM recognises that rivalry and criticism are part of OGame, and it recognises Frost's genuine combat achievements.

Despite that history, DOOM publicly supported Frost against BAMBOO in 2026. Darth congratulated him on major victories, Tai Lung praised his fleeting, and Frost personally thanked Darth for that support.

The central breach of trust came later. Frost alleged that DOOM was secretly coordinating with BAMBOO and claimed access to confidential information through people inside DOOM. DOOM categorically denies that any joint operation with BAMBOO was planned. It also rejects the use of unnamed alleged insiders to cast suspicion on loyal members.

Friendship between rival alliances is entirely possible. Presenting those friendships as channels for confidential intelligence, whether truthfully or as a bluff, is something else. DOOM will not remove its members because Frost insinuates that they may be compromised.

Darth is responsible for the Buzz filler names, and the planets will remain. When he ended the friendship, Frost wrote that each side was free to attack, spy and bash the other. DOOM agrees. It will continue to decide its own alliances, membership, friendships and objectives.

DOOM's position is clear: there is room for rivalry, fair combat and mutual recognition of achievement. There is no room for an expectation of friendship alongside allegations of secret collusion and claims of confidential access that undermine internal trust.
